Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon in Dallas at the Ed C. Smith Chapel. The services were in charge of Dr. Graham Frank of Dallas, assisted by Rev. L. N. D. Wells and Rev. W. W. Phares. Pall bearers, both active and honorary were pastors of the Dallas Christian churches and Rev. Ben Hearn, former Comanche pastor and now pastor of the Christian Church at Denison. Interment was in the Grove Hill Cemetery at Dallas.

For Representative

Pictured above is W. B. Nowlin of De Leon, who this week makes his official announcement as a candidate for State Representative of the 104th District.

W. B. Nowlin Makes Statement In Race For Representative

To the Voters of Mills and Comanche Counties:

I take this method of announcing my candidacy for the office of State Representative, 104th District, which is composed of Mills County and Comanche County. I was born in Comanche County in 1905 and spent the early part of my life in Eastland and Jones Counties, but the last 12 years I have lived in Comanche County and for most of that time in De Leon. I have been in the advertising and publishing business for the past ten years and have traveled in forty states, employing from three to twenty people in the interest of my own business. Although I consider Texas the greatest state of them all, I have noticed that some of the other states have a more efficient and economical state government. Some states are out of debt and on a cash basis although they do not have as many people and natural resources as we have.

In announcing my candidacy for public office I have been asked questions concerning my platform. Briefly, I am opposed to any form of legislation that would increase the tax burden upon the retail business man, and I consider that a retail sales tax would be an imposition upon the business man and the consumer alike. If our present methods of taxation are not sufficient to raise the necessary revenue for our state I would be in favor of a small gross income tax, with some personal and business exemptions. The present system of licensing and registering automobiles is unequal. I favor a flat one dollar registration fee, plus one dollar and fifty cents per one hundred dollar valuation of the automobile. Under this system, an old car would cost less to register than a new one, but under the present system, in many cases, it costs more to register a 1930 model than it does a 1942 model, because the sole factor at this time is the weight of the vehicle instead of the value.

I think that anything that is detrimental to the welfare of our local community should be taxed to such an extent that it could not exist. Finally, in these times so heavily in taxes, war bonds

Mrs. Dyer, who was Miss Judy Simpkins before her marriage to Mr. Dyer in December, says that she will probably remain in Comanche, but has not yet made any definite plans. She is an English teacher in Comanche High School.

R. B. Newman Passes Away At Plainview; Buried At Comanche

R. B. Newman, 76, brother-in-law of O. O. Brightman of Comanche, and for many years a prominent citizen and a successful business man of Comanche before moving to West Texas and New Mexico about 20 years ago, died suddenly at his home in Plainview Wednesday from a heart attack. Funeral services were held at the Comanche Funeral Home Thursday afternoon with Rev. A. Bryson English, pastor of the Comanche Methodist Church officiating. Burial was in Oakwood Cemetery where Mrs. Newman was laid to rest June 22, 1938.

Pall bearers were Ira Clemons, A. P. Burks, J. C. Biggs, M. Coleman, and C. W. Williams of Comanche, and Mr. O'Neill.

After leaving Comanche Mr. Newman engaged in farming and ranching in New Mexico. Since Mrs. Newman's death he has made his home mostly in Plainview.

In addition to other relatives, Mr. Newman is survived by five sons: Gene Newman of Encino, New Mexico; Yearwood, Lyman and Joe Newman all of Plainview, and Robert Newman, Jr., of Amarillo. A daughter, Mary, died at the age of two in 1915.

Methodist Revival Drawing Interest

(By Methodist Reporter)

Rev. John M. Neal, veteran Methodist evangelist, is furnishing the hearers at the local Methodist Church revival plenty of information about how to live the Christian life. His imitations about people in church work and every day life are delivered in such a way that laughter and tears are forthcoming. For forty years he has preached the Gospel to people in the U.S.A. He was a successful pastor for 20 years. Then he refused a large pastorate to accept the job as a General Evangelist of the Methodist Church which job has carried him to various parts of our Nation for 20 years. Having only one open date for the Summer he was invited to come to Comanche for that open date. He will leave Comanche after the last morning sermon to return to Huntsville where he will conduct a revival in his home town.

Rev. Lloyd Sanders, pastor of the May Methodist Church, is charming his audience with his beautiful solos. He has charge of the young peoples' work and music for the revival.

All denominations are accepting the invitation sent out by the pastor to attend the services. All singers of the community are asked to help during the remainder of the revival. The date of revival as originally announced is May 24 through June 7.

The Comanche Garden Club conducted its annual pilgrimage to local gardens Thursday afternoon. The pilgrimage was preceded by a luncheon which was attended by approximately 100, at which the president, Mrs. J. D. Waring, presided. Guest speaker was Mrs. Will Lake of Fort Worth, program chairman of the Texas Garden Clubs, Inc., who talked on "The Value of Garden Clubs in Wartime." Mrs. J. B. Chilton, historian, gave a review of the Comanche club's activities from the beginning.

The garden of Mrs. E. E. Anthony was outstanding from several angles. It has a planting of yuccas, cacti and other Western plants, along the outside wire fences, in keeping with the natural merging of the landscape of mesquites, catclaws and liveoaks. A large old school bell and a huge flat stone well top were objects of interest. A pool is attractive at the entrance to the grounds.

A low rock wall surrounds the well kept garden of Mrs. Bill Durham. Irises are planted outside this wall, softening the effect and giving a color note. A tailored privet hedge, in distinctive design, separates the front garden from the rear, and there is an attractive archway, made of the trimmed privet, through which one enters. Senias, with gray-green foliage, offer pleasing contrast against the dark leathery rich verdure of photinias, mahonias, wax-leaved ligustrums and other shrubs in the border. Freziera line the winding entrance walk.

The garden of Mrs. Chilton is notable for its clumps of native liveoaks, around which the entire garden has been built. On a rocky hillside, natural advantages have been taken into account. Stepping stones lead from one garden unit to the next, in pleasing sequence. A pool, planted with native aquatics, nestles under the trees. A purple-flowered Clematis graces the pergola. Polyantha roses give the gay note in the rose garden, and a silver lace-vine throws shadows over the stone terraces.

The W. H. Thate garden, a low rambling, ranch-type on a hill, is flanked by giant clumps of Burbank spineless cactus. Vegetable and flowers were pleasing features of this garden also. Mr. and Mrs. Porter Franks were hosts at the Funeral Home, and the spacious lawn, well trimmed and with a deep, heavy turf, offered the special attention. Pansies, roses and zinnias give the color note.

The gardens, almost tropical in effect, and the natural history museum were rivals in interest at the J. B. Allcorn home, the last one on the pilgrimage list. The large collection of geological specimens is particularly distinctive. Here are fern imprints, dinosaur tracks, petrified anemones in relief, stalagmites and stalactites, petrified trees of many kinds, birds, reptiles and innumerable other objects. The garden furniture features many of the geological specimens, among them being an immense table top which once saw service as a well head. The greenhouse has many tropical exotics and the rock museum displays antique glass, antique art and taxidermy objects and geological specimens.

Garden Club Flower Show Opens Here Today In Courthouse; The Public Urged To Bring Entries

The Comanche Garden Club's Annual Flower Show will open here today in the basement of the courthouse and will continue through tomorrow. The public is invited not only to attend the show, but to bring entries for the show. Especially are people urged to bring entries of arrangements in wild flowers, cultivated flowers, as well as vegetables of all kinds.

No admission charge will be made, but those attending may make a freewill offering to the Red Cross.

Mrs. D. L. Connally, accredited judge of Brownwood, will be the official judge and will bring along an assistant judge from that city.

The show in the past has been one of the best in the State and an even better exhibit is expected this year. Features of the show will be a hook rug made entirely of flowers, a formal and informal table setting, and a miniature hlaif block of homes and gardens with real grass.

There will be miniature flower and vegetable arrangements as well as interesting canning exhibits. High School Home Economics Clubs, Women's Home Demonstration Clubs, as well as individuals are especially urged to bring canning exhibits.

The president of the club states that the public is cordially invited to attend this show as it promises to be both educational and interesting.

New Plan To Collect Scrap Metal Is Announced By Mrs. Waring

An intensive campaign to collect scrap metal in this area and throughout the entire State to get it to steel mills were it is urgently needed now in the manufacture of steel for the nation's war effort is being launched by the Texas Roadside Development Program, it is announced by Mrs. John D. Waring, Jr., local member of the program, a Statewide citizens' organization.

All persons living in unincorporated towns and in rural areas are urged to collect their scrap metal from their property and deposit it on the right-of-way lines along State highways. It will be picked up by State Highway Department trucks as they return to section warehouses. The scrap will then be turned over to the Red Cross, the USO, or the Boy Scouts in each area, which organizations will make it available to the Government. In Comanche this metal will be bought from these organizations by Sol Hoffman, local dealer.

There is a large amount of scrap metals uncollected in this state. A number of the country's steel furnaces recently have had to close down due to the acute shortage of scrap. From 60 to 90 per cent scrap is mixed with pig-iron to make steel.

It is expected that the campaign in this state will result in a large collection of the urgently needed scrap, which otherwise cannot be readily obtained from outlying communities, farms, ranches, and other properties.

The Highway Department workers in the field will be on the lookout for the scrap metal deposited on the right-of-way lines of highways by citizens and will collect it in Highway trucks for shipment to mills from a central point in each area. The shipment of scrap to mills has been retarded in the past by high freight rates, but these have been substantially reduced and the Government is working to arrange further reductions in an effort to help get the much needed material to the foundries.

The War Production Board points out the following scrap equivalents as essential in the manufacture of armament:

5 pounds: 4 hand grenades.
420 pounds: 210 rifles (.30 cal.)
850 pounds: 150 light machine guns.

2 tons: 8 anti-tank guns
(.37 MM.)
15 tons: 1 tank.

15,000 tons: 1 battleship.

Others not living along the state highways continue to bring it to the local scrap dealers as fast as possible. But in either case Bring It In NOW!

Comanche Men Meet In Africa

The world is not so big after all, according to two Comanche men who met recently in the middle of Darkest Africa. They were James Clarke, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Charles Clarke of Comanche and Howell McCorkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Ray McCorkle of Beatrice.

Clarke is a pilot with the American Airlines which company has a contract to ferry bombers across to the war zone. Young McCorkle is a first lieutenant in the United States Air Corps.

Their meeting was accidental. McCorkle just happened to see Clarke alight from a plane and recognized him and the latter was very much surprised to find the person who slapped him on the back to be an old Comanchean. Clarke was an instructor in an Oklahoma City flying school where McCorkle received some of his training.

Food Will Win The War And Write The Peace, Is Declaration Pointing To Big Job Ahead For Farmers

From Upper Leon District Soil Conservation Service

Secretary Wickard's statement that "Food will win the war and write the peace" is perhaps one of the most significant phrases ever uttered by an American citizen. Significant, in immediate effects, because American farmers have rallied to the cause and are producing the food and fiber needed to meet the present emergency. Significant, in long time objectives, because it has so forcibly brought to the attention of all the citizenship of the country the value of good topsoil in the preservation of the "American way."

Farmers now realize more than ever before that "conservation farming" is the most practical and economical method of increasing yields. They realize that they must not only follow a system of farming that will protect the soils from erosion, but that they must know something about the adaptabilities of the various types of soil so that each field and each acre can be made to produce the highest possible yields in terms of human needs.

The farm pond fits in very admirably with a "conservation farming" and "land use for highest returns" system of farming. The land actually involved in the pond site could receive no better protection from erosion. The pond helps to slow up runoff, thus preventing erosion and the water stored which helps to prevent floods can have so many profitable uses:—water for livestock, water for irrigation, water for quail, doves, duck, and many other forms of wildlife.

Possibly the highest use in terms of human needs that could be made of the water stored in the farm pond would be fish production. (Fortunately, fish production would not lessen the usefulness of the pond for any of the other uses.)

Pound for pound, fish production can be made to equal meat production from any other source both from the standpoint of yields per acre of land used and cost per pound. The facilities for providing the farm family with fresh fish once or twice per week throughout the year would be more simple and less expensive than would be the provisions for supplying fresh beef or pork or even chicken.

Those farms or ranches that have farm ponds for fish production should use commercial fertilizer at the rate of 100 pounds of the balanced fertilizer and 10 pounds of nitrate of soda per surface acre of water per month from about March or April until November. Whatever fertilizer is used should be applied by broadcasting it in water that ranges in depth from 1 to 5 feet.

Existing ponds that have been stocked as long as three years are, in general, badly overstocked. In such cases the population should be greatly thinned out by seining or by removing all fish and starting over.

Fingerling fish may be obtained from State or Federal hatcheries. Farmers cooperating with soil conservation districts should apply to Federal hatcheries (forms available from Soil Conservation Service Office, De Leon, Texas). Others should apply for fish by writing to State Game Departments or to individual Federal hatcheries.

Government Regulations Prohibit Special Deliveries and Call Backs after May 31st

Your Ice Serviceman

To save rubber, Office of Defense Transportation Order ODT No. 6 limits regular deliveries to not more than one a day per customer

To conserve rubber, the Office of Defense Transportation has issued Order ODT No. 6, restricting deliveries by rubber-tired vehicles, whether motor-driven or horse-drawn. Effective June 1 and applicable to any person or firm delivering any commodity within any community, the order specifies that:

No special deliveries may be made, except to hospitals, military forces or in cases where public health, life and safety are imperiled. A special delivery is one made at the request of a particular person or firm other than as part of a regular scheduled delivery service.

No call backs may be made, a "call back" being defined as any call made subsequent to the first call on any one person or firm on any given day, regardless of the purpose of the call.

Not more than one delivery per day may be made to any one customer, except as authorized under special deliveries.

The order further stipulates that, beginning June 1, each local carrier must reduce his total monthly vehicle mileage 25% below total for same month of preceding year, exclusive of mileage eliminated as a result of other requirements of the order.

Under the foregoing provisions, we shall no longer be able to make the special deliveries and extra calls that we have gladly made in the past as a convenience to our customers. We shall continue to make regular scheduled deliveries, however, and you can help us keep you well-supplied with ice by anticipating your requirements and making arrangements to receive deliveries at scheduled times. Commercial customers, who formerly required more than one delivery per day, can cooperate by providing larger storage facilities or arranging to pick up additional ice at our dock. There are no restrictions on dock sales.

We are sorry that circumstances make it impossible for us to continue to make deliveries without limitations as in the past, but we know you understand the necessity for conserving rubber and will be glad to cooperate until victory comes and unrestricted delivery service can be resumed.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

BY BOYCE HOUSE

An Austin urchin has found an unusual way to pick up a bit of change. He enters the lobby of a hotel with newspapers under his arm—they are many hours old but they provide the pretext for his coming in. He goes up to a group and, singling out one of the men, he says:

"If I can tell you your first name, your birthday, the name of your wife and the name of the first woman you ever loved, would it be worth a quarter and if I don't tell you all this, you don't pay me a thing?"

He says it all in one breath and a amused "prospector" says, "All right." So the boy tells him:

"Your first name was baby, your birthday was the day you were born, the name of your wife is Mrs. and the name of the first woman you ever loved was your mother."

The other men guffaw and the victim hands over the quarter.

"Since he is himself a wool growing Texas rancher and is also a governor facing an election campaign, we believe Governor Stevenson made a courageous as well as a sound statement the other day when he said the price limit set by administrators on wool is too high," says the Fort Worth Press, editorially. "There certainly is no war 'gimme' there. Perhaps Governor Stevenson and the other growers who agree with him remember the last war when wool prices skyrocketed and then plummeted so that the whole industry was upset. Governor Stevenson recognizes very sensibly that too-high prices mean inflation and that inflation means later trouble."

A former citizen of San Antonio, who now runs a hotel out on the Pacific Coast, says: "California is too far from Texas ever to amount to very much."

Being in Austin—especially when the legislature is in session—is like having a ringside seat at an unending, free show.

Notables, such as Kallernborn, Senator Pepper of Florida, and Helen Keller who was born deaf and blind, are invited to speak to the legislature and the galleries are, of course, open to the public.

On one occasion, delegates of reservation in East Texas were visitors in the House of Representatives. They were in native costume. Several lawmakers were made honorary members of the tribe and were presented with Indian head-dresses, after which the Alabama-Coushatta Indian the red men gave several dances and the medicine man prayed that the new members of the tribe would be well and good, and kill "plenty deer."

Today is the "First" and pay day for many of our citizens—a good time to buy a War Savings Bond or Stamp.

The notes usually ran something like this, "May be I love you and may be I don't; May be I will marry you and may be I won't."

We are over the hump on war production. Today the combined production of America, Russia, less than 30 days the 1200 special- and England undoubtedly is greater than the combined Axis production.

A man came into a bank and wanted to borrow $5. He was told that the bank did not lend such small sums.

"But," he went on, "lending money is your business, isn't it?" The banker admitted it was.

"Well, I've got good security," said the stranger, "and I want to borrow $5."

Finally the banker agreed to make the loan. When the note was drawn and the interest of 30 cents paid, the stranger drew from his pocket $10,000 worth of Government bonds and handed them over as security. Before the banker could recover from his astonishment the stranger said, "Now, this is something like it. Over at the other bank they wanted to charge me $10 just for a safe deposit box to keep these things in."

Former County Agent J. A. Barton, now of Ballinger, will be one of the judges at the Official Dairy Day here April 22.

An Irishman with a luxuriant head of hair and a Jew with an equally luxuriant beard got to arguing as to which belonged to the greater race and it was agreed that, as each named a great man of his own race, he could pluck a hair from his adversary.

"Moses," said Ikey—and yanked a hair from Mike's head.

"St. Patrick," yelled Mike, and jerked a hair from the other's beard.

"The Twelve Apostles," said Ikey and pulled out a handful of Mike's hair.

The Irishman seized the other's whiskers with both hands and shouted, "The Knights of Columbus."

A friend asked Tim, "What would ye be if ye wasn't Irish?" Tim replied, "Shure, and I'd be ashamed."

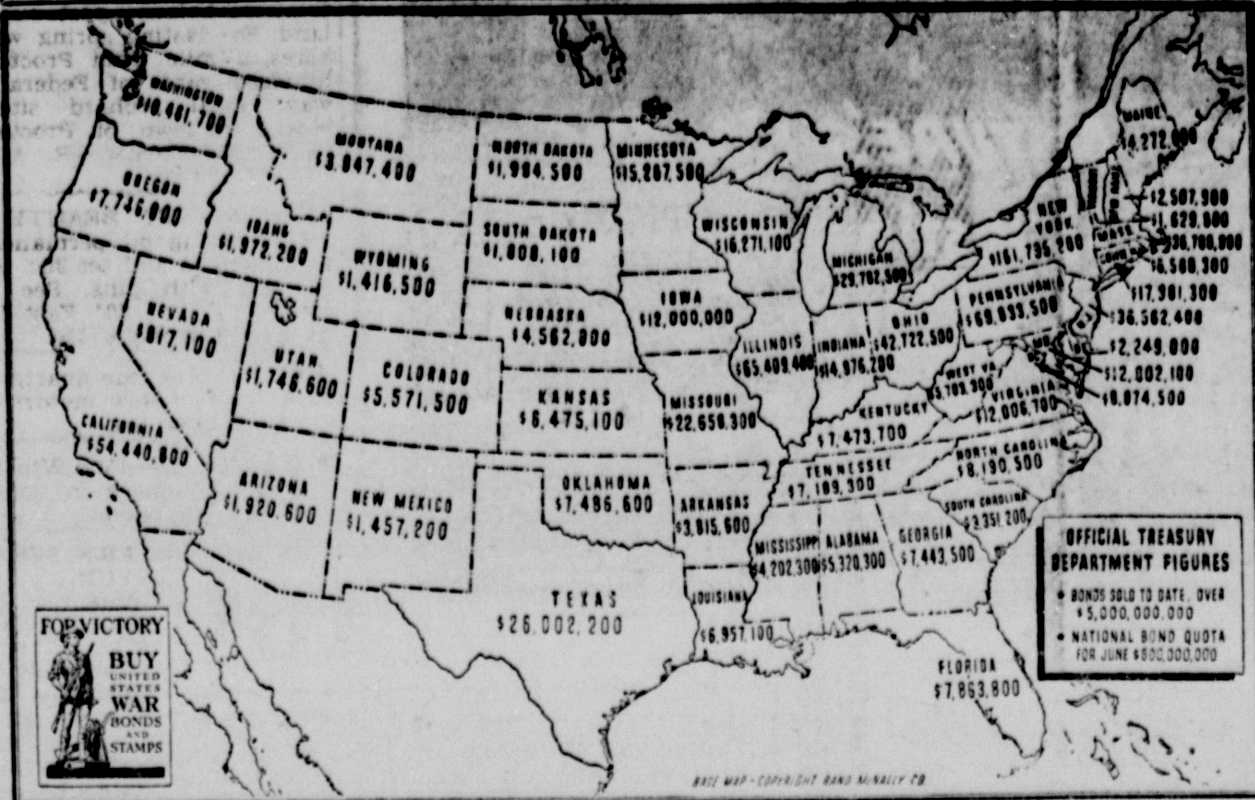

Speaking of authors, here are a few colorful bits from their lives:

Vachel Lindsay tramped across America, reciting poems in exchange for bread.

Francis Villon was a Paris pickpocket and murderer, but he wrote lines that will never die—such as, "Where are the snows of yesteryear?"

Official U. S. Treasury War Bond Quotas for June

The above map of the country shows the War Bond Quota by states for the month of June totalling $800,000,000. Everybody every day is expected to invest at least ten per cent of his income in War Bonds to aid in financing America's offensive against the Axis powers.

The ultimate quota for the nation will be on a basis of one billion dollars per month effective in July. This sum is necessary to provide for all-out production of planes, guns, ships and munitions adequate to arm our fighting men with the tools necessary to win the war.

Suggestion How To Operate Refrigerator To Save Electricity

This is the first in a series of articles prepared by Home Service Advisors of the Texas Power & Light Company.

"As a consumer in the total defense of democracy I will do my part to make my home, my community, my country, ready, efficient, strong. I will buy carefully. I will take good care of the things I have. I will waste nothing."

These words constitute the pledge taken by millions of American housewives during Civilian Defense Week. They epitomize the part our women must play in the struggle ahead.

There is no room for waste in wartime America, whether it be in industry, the armed forces, or in the average home. "Conserve" has become a slogan of war-time America—conserve food, conserve vitamins by getting the full nutritive value from the foods you serve, conserve all home equipment by using it efficiently and taking proper care of it. That is considered an all-important job on the home front for the duration.

In the modern home, the refrigerator assumes special importance as a means of conserving foods. Care and maintenance of the electric refrigerator is relatively simple and many years of continuous and economical service may be obtained by following a few common-sense rules:

Steaming hot foods should not be placed in the refrigerator as this will increase the operating time.

Place foods in proper storage zones and allow for circulation of air within the cabinet to assure proper preservation of foods.

Avoid opening the door of your refrigerator more often than necessary and keeping it open longer than necessary. The more warm air that is allowed to enter the cabinet, the more the mechanism must operate to maintain safe food storage temperature.

Do not operate the refrigerator at a colder temperature than necessary. Safe storage temperature is approximately 40 F. and a control setting which maintains this temperature is adequate.

Ice cubes can be frozen more quickly if the tray bottom or freezing surface is wet when the tray is placed in the freezing compartment. This forms a solidly frozen contact between the tray and freezing surface which hastens the transfer of cold to the contents of the tray.

Do not use a sharp instrument to pry or force trays free from the freezing surface or frost from the freezing compartment. This may cause chipping or even puncture the surface which would entail costly repairs.

Defrost whenever the frost in the freezing compartment exceeds 1/4 inch. This frost in many cases acts as an insulator which retards the transfer of cold from the freezing compartment to the rest of the cabinet interior.

Clean the entire cabinet interior, including shelves and freezing compartment with a mild solution of warm water and baking soda each time you defrost. This eliminates all food odors and provides a refreshed atmosphere for healthful storage of foods.

Use mild soap and warm water on the cabinet exterior. Never use gritty or abrasive cleansers. If the finish is other than porcelain it is advisable to wax the surface 2 or 3 times a year with a good liquid polish wax.

Be sure to give the mechanical part of your refrigerator the attention it needs. If you have an open-type mechanism in your refrigerator, it will need periodic oiling and adjusting. Have reliable servicemen do this and advise how often it should be repeated. Hermetically-sealed units do not require oiling or adjusting.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The Aerial Camera for use on Scout and Observation and Reconnaissance planes is essential to both the Army and Navy air forces in planning battle formations and in obtaining information on enemy fortifications and movements. They look something like a cannon, and cost about $3,400 apiece.

The aerial cameraman can plot wide territories in bold relief so that Army or Navy Intelligence can make accurate measurements of enemy territory. We need many of these cameras so necessary to the air arms of the Army and Navy. You can help buy them with your purchases of War Bonds. Invest at least ten percent of your income every pay day, and help your country go over its War Bond Quota.

U. S. Treasury Department

Says Hitler Should Know About This

The following two paragraphs were handed to us by C. P. St. Clair, with the remark, "Well, Hitler, of all persons, should know about this. He has had plenty of experience."

"At the bottom of their hearts the great masses of the people are more likely to be poisoned than to be consciously and deliberately bad. In the primitive simplicity of their minds they are more easily victimized by a large than by a small lie, since they sometimes tell petty lies themselves but would be ashamed to tell big ones."

"An untruth of that sort would never come into their heads, and they cannot believe that others would indulge in so vast an impudence as gross distortion. Even after being enlightened, they will long continue to doubt and waver, and will still believe there must be some truth behind it somewhere. For this reason some part of even the boldest lie is sure to stick—a fact which all the great liars and liars' societies in this world know only too well, and make base use of."—Adolf Hitler, Mein Kampf.

HASSE CLUB NEWS

(By Club Reporter)

The Hasse Home Demonstration Club met last Thursday at the Hasse School House with eleven present, and one new member.

A demonstration of canning green snap beans was made by Miss Mayfield. Several pamphlets on new canning methods were passed out to each one and recipes for cooking and using syrup and honey as substitutes for sugar were given to those who wanted them.

Making foundation patterns will be the main feature for the next meeting.

It was suggested for those who have anything to can, such as beans or peas, to bring them in next club day. Some plan of meeting at the school house two days a week for the ladies to can their vegetables will be decided on later.

A. E. WHITESIDE NOW IN CISCO HOSPITAL

J. E. Whiteside returned Friday from Rochester, Minn., with his father, A. E. Whiteside of Sipe Springs, whom he took on May 11 to the Mayo hospital.

Mr. Whiteside reports that his father is now in a Cisco hospital and that his condition is serious.

SEE THAT BIG UGLY MONSTER?

IT'S KNOWN AS A TANK. Adolph Hitler has been building 'em for 6 years now! Hirohito started before that!! And Benito—between retreats—is also not far behind! The AXIS —then—has quite a large number of them—

Ditto: PLANES, SHIPS, SUBS, BULLETS, GUNS, ETC., AND OTHER WAR NEEDS!

Now then, how about UNCLE SAM? (By the way, WHO IS UNCLE SAM? UNCLE SAM is the total sum of YOU and YOU and YOU, and all the rest of US who call ourselves AMERICANS, and enjoy the rights and privileges of this wonderful land of ours, and accept its protection and opportunities—and sometimes forget how fortunate we are, and how grateful we should be!) . . . But the question is: How long has Uncle Sam been building tanks, planes, ships, subs, bullets, guns, etc.? And the answer is: About 2 years!

Well—Have you been reading the papers. Have you listened to the radio? Do you get the reports? Do you know what Uncle Sam needs to bridge that 4 year gap? And do you realize the urgent need for doing so? That Americans are dying because we need more tanks, etc.? Do you realize what goes into the manufacture of tanks, etc.? And what is the one vital material of all . . . ?

IRON--IRON

That's The Answer

Uncle Sam has informed Scrap Iron Dealers that complacency shown by holders of scrap iron in getting it moving to war production factories is no longer a matter to be taken lightly! The time has come when the matter of patriotism is connected with the matter of selling iron, because the one burning point is: We can never hope to match the Axis in needed war equipment until every available pound of waste scrap material is rounded up and loaded into a car bound for a war material factory! AND LOADING IS GOING ON CONTINUOUSLY IN COMANCHE! SELL YOUR IRON TODAY!

Former Comanche County School Teacher Tells of Schools Here As They Were Fifty Years Ago

(By W. P. Weaver, Goldthwaite)

Fifty years ago Jim Hogg was governor of Texas and we had the Hogg-Clark-Nugent campaign. If you remember those days you can picture the country homes, poorly lighted and with no radios, telephones, refrigerators, plumbing or screens. It was before the day of home conveniences. There were few good roads and few bridges. Country people went to church and to town in wagons. Young men and women rode horseback—the girls on side saddles.

In this setting the country schools had a place and turned out men and women who have guided the destiny of the country for two generations.

Country school houses of that time were generally one room box structures seated with benches, and furnished with one chair and one table for the teacher. For convenience it was located near a thicket or ravine. McGuffey's readers, blue back speller, and Ray's arithmetic were the books used. Written work was done on slates and blackboard space was limited. Agents for school charts had just found their way out to rural communities.

Some schools had convenient wells. Others carried water from springs. In either case pupils dipped water from a bucket with a common dipper. The teacher or the large girls sweet the floor. (No floor sweep). Poles and a dull ax was furnished and the teacher and big boys chopped wood. The boys were willing to chop wood during study hours. The teacher went early on cold mornings to start a fire. Children walked to school across the fields and pastures or down the road. On cold days or when the creek was up they stayed home.

Trustees rarely held meetings so the teacher went to each member for signatures to contract or voucher.

In those days districts were small but families corresponding large. Then couples married to have children. By the eighth anniversary they had one or more children ready for school and after that scholastics came off the assembly line with regularity. It was all out production.

Organized athletics had not arrived at that time. Boys played townball, marbles, and sometimes tried to have baseball with some of the smaller boys participating.

Too few large boys for a team. The girls played "Antny Over" or "Ring Round Rosy" or "Drop the Handkerchief." And it was a capital offense for boys and girls to play together or sit on the same side of the room. It was too bad for the teacher when some one said "He was teaching a sparking school."

I have made some hit and run trips through the communities I taught from 1892 to 1903. Next, I will write about Cottonwood and Soda Springs.

"School days. School days. Dear old golden rule days. Reading, writin, and 'rithmetic. Taught to the tune of a hickory stick.

(By Mrs. Jack Carnes, Reporter)

The Indian Creek Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. Lela Burdette Thursday, May 21 for an all day session. Since Miss Mayfield did not meet with us that day, we did not call a meeting on our home demonstration work. We quilted two quilts for Mrs. Burdette and were served a delicious dinner by the hostess.

Since Mrs. Burdette has just completed construction of a new home, we surprised her with a shower. She received many useful gifts.

Thirteen members and four visitors attended the meeting. We meet June 4 with Mary Coker. Let all be present as we will have a business meeting.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

BY BOYCE HOUSE

Governor Coke Stevenson is a good story-teller. Here's one that's credited to Texas' pipe-smoking chief executive:

On his ranch near Junction, he had working for him a cowhand who was the second biggest liar in the world, Stevenson figured. He had already fired the biggest.

And he thought he ought to have a heart-to-heart talk with the second cowboy, so the Governor told him how the other man had been let out because the rest of the crew couldn't abide the fellow's lies.

"Yes, I know," and the cowhand shook his head.

Stevenson continued, "Now take what he said about the trees in East Texas being 800 feet high."

The cowboy broke in, "Yeah, the trouble with that guy was he just never had seen any real trees like we have up in my country."

Collier's in a recent issue told of a loan shark case in Dallas: "For nine years, the victim paid $2.25 a week for a loan of $20, borrowed to settle a hospital bill. Never having been allowed to apply a cent to the principal, he still owed the $20, although he had paid a total of $1,053 or 5,265 per cent interest."

Sign in a cross-roads store: "If you spit on the floor at home, spit on the floor here. We want you to feel at home."

It was the custom of Judge R. E. L. Baylor to conduct court during the week and then convert the bench into a pulpit on Sunday and preach the gospel in the court room with the same vigor that he had administered the law. It is said that the first sermon ever preached in Waco was delivered by this eminent pioneer jurist.

An old Negro preacher owned a mule which had an efficient pair of heels and a loud but unmusical voice.

One Sunday morning, while the preacher was delivering his sermon, the mule persisted in putting his head in at the window and baying loudly.

The preacher finally said: "Bredren and sistern, is dere one among you all who knows how to keep date mule quiet?"

"Pahson," replied a man, "if you will jess tie a stone to dat mule's tail he sho will keep quiet."

"Bredren and sistern," said the preacher, "let him who is without sin tie de fust stone."

Canada, too, is making a drastic cut in wheat acreage. Like the United States, Canada has a tremendous wheat carry-over. The war has cut off as many markets as it has created. So, instead of the cry, "Wheat will win the war!" which was heard in 1917, the cry is, "Cut down wheat acreage to reduce surpluses!" There is a warning there for American farmers—especially those who remember the call to turn under virgin sod for wheat in 1917. The farmer, or anyone else, who tries to gauge today's situation by yesterday's measure, is in for trouble.

And now and then they kiss: Two Irishmen, about to fight, agreed that the one who first wanted to quit had only to yell "Sufficient" and the other would stop. Flanagan got Casey down and was pounding him unmercifully when Casey yelled, "Sufficient" but Flanagan kept on. A spectator said, "Don't you hear him say that he's got enough?"

To which Flanagan replied: "Faith, an' he's such a liar, who'd be believin' of him?"

A similar story is the one about the Dutchman who was going to fight an Irishman and it was agreed that when one had enough, he would yell "Sufficient" and that would end the fight. The Dutchman knocked the Irishman down five times. Finally Pat floored his opponent and pounded him, whereupon the Dutchman shouted, "Sufficient." Pat jumped up, snapped his fingers and said, "D— it, I've been tryin' to think of that word for five minutes!"

Says The Clifton Record:

"Sentiment in early marriage is a fine thing and something no one will argue against; however, the husband who proves to be able to pay his wife's groceries and other bills gets the nod from her as the kind of man she dreamed of being married to."

"And on the other hand it is something questionable as to the standing of a fellow even with his wife when he shows up to be so sorry that the grocery stores will not deliver groceries to his home without the cash "on the barrel head."

Women are getting to be more particular even before marriage as to the kind of prospect for a provider she hooks up with for life; and that is the correct time to make such decisions."

WHEN TO QUIT ADVERTISING

(Western Motor Transport)

The best time to quit advertising is—When the population ceases to multiply, and the generations that crowd on after you and never heard of you stop coming on.

When you have converted everybody whose life will touch yours that you have better goods and lower prices than they can get anywhere else.

When you can perceive it to be the rule that men who never advertise are outstripping their neighbors in the same line of business.

When every man has become so thoroughly a creature of habit that he will certainly buy this year where he bought last year.

When younger and fresher houses in your line cease starting up and using newspapers in telling the people how much better they can do for them than you can.

When you would rather have your own way and fall than take advice and win.

Perhaps that's why it usually gives a child such refreshing relief when the familiar symptoms indicate a laxative is needed.

I'LL TUNE OUT THE ALKA-SELTZER ANNOUNCEMENT

Don't - THAT'S THE MOST IMPORTANT THING YOU'LL HEAR TONIGHT

"When statements about Alka-Seltzer are made over the air, please, please believe them."

Mrs. Oma Catherine Jones

MILLIONS suffer less from Headache, Acid Indigestion, Distress of Colds "Morning After" and Muscular Fatigue because they have heard - and believed - Alka-Seltzer radio announcements.

To these millions, the relief obtained by the use of Alka-Seltzer is worth far more than the genuine enjoyment they get from the broadcasts.

The most important parts of our radio program, both to you and to us, are the commercial announcements. Once you have tried Alka-Seltzer we believe you will agree with us. But try Alka-Seltzer because it is an unusually effective medicine not because you enjoy the radio programs.

WHY ALKA-SELTZER IS SO EFFECTIVE

The pain-relieving analgesic in Alka-Seltzer is in complete solution, ready to ease the distress as soon as you swallow it. The pain-relieving action is made more effective by alkaline buffers. The alkalinizing elements in Alka-Seltzer reduce excess stomach acidity.

Get Alka-Seltzer the next time you pass a drug store.

Electric Power is ON the "front line"

NOW, TODAY!...electric power is on the "front line" of America's war effort... driving the machinery of production in factories and shops throughout the nation... speeding the work of America's millions of workers... building fighting power for America's victory!

Your privately-operated power companies, supplying seven-eighths of America's electric power (more than is produced in Germany, Japan and Italy combined) are helping to build America's fighting power. They had electric power ready to start the nation's productive might "rolling" in high gear and they are providing the power to "keep it rolling" faster and faster. These companies have volunteered in this war to keep electric power on the production "front line" twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week.

In Texas, the Texas Power & Light Company is "all out" for Victory...supplying without delay the power requirements of war production in the area it serves, as well as the needs of its regular customers...and planning for the increased war needs of tomorrow!

Navy School at G.E.

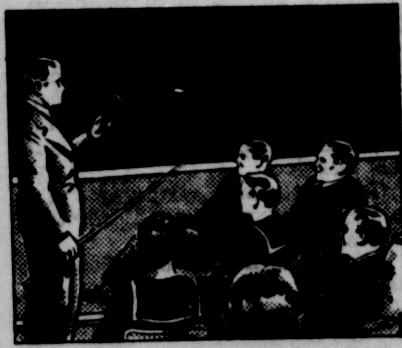

Just one evidence of the cooperation between the armed services and our vast industrial army—a school for submarine electricians conducted at one General Electric factory.

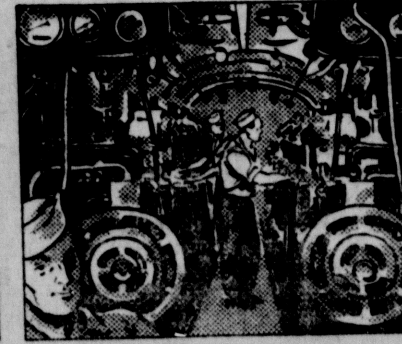

1. Electricity is vital to the running of every submarine. It does an amazing variety of important jobs, from turning the propeller to cooking the coffee.

3. and go out into the shops where they watch workmen construct the same kind of electric equipment that will some day be put in their charge.

2. For that reason, there must be well-trained electricians on every underwater craft. At this school, Navy electricians attend classes taught by G-E engineers.

4. This is but one proof of the thorough training which the U.S. Navy gives its men, so that the vital equipment of war will always be ready for action.

MORE ABOUT NOWLIN CAMPAIGN

when it is necessary to contribute and contributions, in order to wage the war successfully, I believe that the state and local governments should exercise the utmost economy and reduce taxes, rather than increase them.

This is the first time that I have ever offered myself as a candidate for an office, and I have done so upon my own initiative, and thus I would represent the interests of the whole people rather than those of any special group. If you see fit to elect me as your representative I will be able to represent you impartially.

I will not be obligated to any particular group of people, but rather will hold my mandate of authority from the entire electorate. I will advocate and vote for the things which I believe will be to the best interests of our people as a whole. I am deeply aware of the duties and responsibilities of the office which I am seeking and feel that my many years of business experience qualify me to represent this district as it should be represented, and as you, the people would have it represented.

Respectfully submitted,
W. B. NOWLIN.

MORE ABOUT GARDEN CLUB PILGRIMAGE

At a recent meeting of the Comanche Garden Club the following officers were elected for 1942-43: Mrs. Chilton, president; Mrs. Tom Dudley, first vice-president; Mrs. Harold Denny, second vice president; Mrs. Paul Jeanes, secretary; Mrs. J. C. Wilkerson, Jr., reporter; Mrs. Joe Tupin, historian, and Mrs. Waring, parliamentarian.

The old Chilton home, now in its forty-fifth year, and now occupied by the son, William C. Chilton, adjoins the present home of Mrs. J. B. Chilton, and has been modernized, but with fine regard for the former architectural features. The old French, white-stucco house, true to form, with peacocks, is truly distinctive, in the midst of the liveoaks that surround the house. The garden is laid out in formal tracts, with brick and stone terraces so arranged as to give emphasis to the flowers. The semi-circular drive in front of the house is bordered with irises and daisies. At one corner of the house, there is a planting of salt cedar, now in full bloom. The soft cerise flowers of this graceful shrub against the vivid cyclamen color of a nearby walking-stick cactus, was a highlight of this garden. Columbine, bright, deep blue canterbury-bells, old fashioned magenta carnations and a large vegetable garden, the latter featuring some of the new originalities in vegetables, were of special interest in the Howard Kilpatrick garden. The ground cover under the oak trees was clover. This home is so situated as to get a commanding view of the surrounding hills, making it particularly attractive.

Vaccination For Fowl Pox Is Easy

Printed Through Courtesy
Atwood Hatchery, Comanche

Chicken pox vaccines have been grown on chick embryos by progressive biological laboratories for several years. Chicken eggs are incubated for ten days, the shell is punctured, and a drop of fowl pox virus is placed upon the exposed membranes surrounding the developing chick.

The opening is then sealed and in three days the allantoic membrane, upon which the virus has made its growth, is harvested, dried and ground to a fine powder ready to be vacuum sealed in vials for distribution to poultrymen.

Fowl Pox Vaccine formerly was made only from the scabs of artificially infected chickens. It is still being made in large quantities from this source, and poultrymen have thus far shown no preference for either type of vaccine, both giving equally satisfactory results.

Fowl pox vaccine is easily and quickly applied. Simply pull three or four feathers out of the thigh of each pullet and breeding cockerel at any time from six to twelve weeks of age and carefully brush the vaccine into the exposed follicles. Examine all vaccinated fowl in ten days to make sure that they have developed an immunity, as indicated by scabs on their legs, and if none appear, vaccinate again.

Fowl pox vaccination will prove a valuable precaution wherever the disease is known to have been on the premises or even in the neighborhood. Vaccinate early to avoid physical shock which might upset appetites and temporarily retard growth, as is sometimes noted in order chicks. There is no noticeable shock in young chicks, and there is a better percentage of successful vaccinations. (Itc)
